

python assignment 1st question

here is the difference between the python execution of the code and c or java executes the code

1. python is an interpreted language on other side c is an interpreted language
- 2.interpreted language runs the code line by line during the execution and compiled language runs the whole code at once after execution
3. it means python executes code line by line during execution and interpreted language runs the whole code after the execution